

Selected Vocabulary from “The Green Eyed Monster: Wónawizi”

ablákela – it is calm, still, windless, quiet ahí – to arrive here bringing something, to bring something here akhó – behind you away from here, way back, away back there ápathuňyela – singling out one from others, favoring someone or something aphíkičičiyA – to fix something for someone, repair, cure, or mend something for someone ayút’ingzA – to tighten something on someone or something ažú – fixings, add-ons things that go with something else, accessories čháj yuksáp s’e – very quickly, in a flash čičí – a bogeyman, malevolent spirit glijóu – to be coming for one’s own gloú – to be coming bringing one’s own glusótA – to use up one’s own, spend, expend, exhaust, consume hanpí – juice or sap of something hugmíyan – a wheel hugmíyan nahómni – a bicycle huínathake – a brake, brakes ihánbla – to dream, have a dream or vision ihánkeya – the most, to the greatest degree ikíčiyuškin – to be happy or excited for someone, congratulate ináhomni – a pedal (as on a bicycle) iyánažičA – to run away with something or someone; to be unstoppable iyótan – most, best, greatest, special, main iyúhomni – a steering wheel, handlebars (as on a bicycle) iyúškinyan – happily, excitedly, joyfully iyútanyA – to tempt someone kíčiyuečhetu – to set something right for someone, fulfill for someone kíčiyuha – to have or keep something for someone else; carry for someone kiphí – something fits someone or something, or is the right size for kítanla – a little, somewhat, barely kpawíyakpa – to shine or polish one’s own kún – to desire something, covet, wish for nakéš – now at last, finally; just now núnpa-akhígle – twice oáli – a stair, stairs okílotA – to borrow something from someone ožíži – to whisper to someone ptéčela – to be short úňthun – to be hurt, injured úňthunjič’iyA – to hurt/injure oneself uší – to tell someone to come, summon wačhínkħo – to pout wakún – to covet or desire things, wish for things wathánni – old things, antiques, rummage wónawizi – jealousy yunáyekhiyA – to pass something on to someone, share with someone what one has obtained